Jeffersontown on Saturday, the 17th inst. It is desirable that there should be as full a meeting as possible from every precinct. The object is to nominate a candidate to represent Jefferson county in the next Legislature. There is one very important fact in this subject of emancipation in all its forms, which is not sufficiently touched upon, though generally admitted. It is that if we make Kentucky a free State, it will become a sort of Botany Bay for all the trifling vagabond blacks in the North and South. Just now, while they are freed by Palmer's passes, they fly from our borders to the North. It is not safe for them to remain in this State while the slave code is still recognized and partially enforced, and when consequently their new-found condition is doubtful and dangerous. This accomplishes just what we want. It sends from the State, without expense, all the blacks who have been deoralized by contact with the flood of Aboters. While it would be advantageous to retain most of these fugitives in their forner condition, to have them here as yagaonds and thieves, crowding our cities, come if, by adopting emancipation, we hordes who would pour in upon us. In a short time the black population would exceed in numbers the whites, and fourfifths of this idle, festering, vagabone race, unconscious of the obligations and duties of freedom, would have to be supported by the toil and sweat and mone to question. The negro does prefer a home in this State, notwithstanding all that has been said of his treatment here, to a home in any Northern State. The radicals in the North assert this, and in their defense of abolition to the Northern people, use it to persuade them that of blacks. They count on emancipation in Kentucky as a means to rid them of those already there. They can justly do so. If emancipation by law is established in Kentucky, the blacks, driven away by the returning soldiers in the North, who fill all the places they might have held, and pushed by unfriendly laws and a hostile people, will enter in Kentucky. It will be the safest be more suitable to them. Add to this the powerful influence that will be exmigration of negroes to Kentucky tion by this State, becomes as unquestioned as that grass grows and water runs.

Let us look Southward to see if any different result will follow. We know that the Kentucky negro, from time immemorial, has looked upon the cotton and sugar States as a sort of place of punishment to which all disorderly blacks were sent. When the pressure of a slave code in the Southern States is raised from them, it is certain that very many, nore than can be easlly estimated, will return to Kentucky, bringing with them

> It is said that the negroes are a great ourden to the owners. Well, if the owners are willing to stand the burden, whose business is it? If they are set free, they will be a burden to the whole people, and that will not better the matter. Sympathizing politicians, who have no negroes, are very anxious to get rid of them. These men think they can press us on the slavery question, until, like the country girl, who repeatedly refused an offer of marriage from a young man, at last got tired of his importunities and said "yes" to his offer, in order to "get rid of the bothersome fellow." And, now that the rebellion is dead—now that our brave soldiers have conquered a peace, we see demagagues arise and trying to get up a crusade and government, by crying out "rebel, rebel"—"confiscate, confiscate,"—"hang, hang." My wish is, and my policy shall be, conciliation, compromise. Let us forget the bitter past, and commence a bright and harmonious future, uniting in fraternal bonds our whole country. Let us protect and shield all citizens who throw laws of the country, and so become in reality one people and one mighty nation in feeling as in name. I desire every former rebel to repent of his misconduct—to become a better man, a good citizen, and as such I would freely extend to him his franchise as an American citizen. SPRINGFIELD, KY., May 29, 1865. Messrs. Editors: Some two weeks ago the Hon. The rebellion being subdued, and no apprehensions existing of disturbance by guerrillas, we did hope that, in this glorious old county of Washington, which had sent over 1,200 men-the noblest and bravest of her sons-to fight for the old flag, we could now have an old-time political discussion, in which the speakers could speak and the people hear, unawed of Union and political brotherhood.

Brief, but sufficient, and all right. We have only room for the proceedings after the convention:

We have about fifty white soldiers located here under the command of Captain Cezine, and, conse nently, do not need these "sable defenders." Why were they sent here? It is said they are on their way to Camp Nelson. If so, in coming from Lebanon to this place, they have marched the disthe Methodist Church was obtained for the purposes of the meeting. Shortly af-ter this arrangement was made, Col. But up to the very hour of the meeting, about the doors IX. Transp and in the upper rooms of the courthouse, a number of the "sweet-scented" were a number of the "sweet-scented" were seen, "like the last rose of summer," still lingering around. No change was therefore made in the programme, and the audience was invited to the Church. We had a very fine audience, and it is proper to say that the meeting passed off with perfect good order, and without disturbing the meeting passed off with for Maj. Gen. E. R. S. Deeming the Southern rebellio now virtually subdued, and rejoicing i the joy of the nation at the sublime de nonstration of its power and resources enibited in the great struggle, he though that, as a wise people, worthy of the blessings of so great, so powerful and so free a government, it would be madness

To say that this able and powerful effort was well received, would be but tame anguage. It was the very utterance of the sentiments of our people, and will be

Mr. Harding, in closing, called upon the audience to give a patient hearing to his antagonist, Col. Taylor, and said that if the Colonel could show that his views afflict my family as none other was ever tain him, for, in this hour of national struggle, all selfish considerations should be forgotten. The Colonel then followed, and received the undivided attention of the audience; but it was soon manifest that the Colonel had undertaken a task to my loyalty; you know my persistent at the rock of Gibraltar. The Colonel feit it to be so, and leaving the consideration of the great issues of the canvass, he turned upon and assailed the consistency of Mr. Harding's political record, and exploded a few squibs upon the canvass of Mr. Harding with Capt. Heady, made some two years ago. It was a terrible falling off; a step from the "sublime to the ridiculous." The thunder storm of the beginning of Col. Taylor's speech ended in the drizzle of the exhausted shower. The response of Mr. Harding ended in the drizzle of the exhausted shower. The response of Mr. Harding was short, successful, inimitable; and Col. Taylor, together with his coadjutory witnesses, fell before the short-sword thrusts of their antagonist, and passed from the stage amid the derisory roars of levelter of a delighted audiance.

An application has been made by Cyrus W. Field, to the Secretary of the Navy, for the detail of the United States steamer Niagara, to assist in the laying of the At-lantic cable. As no official notice of the rescinding of the order that vessels of war of the United States shall not be permitted of the United States shall not be permitted to remain more than twenty-four hours in any British port, the request can't be acceded to. The published information of the repeal of the order excluding belligerent vessels from more than twenty-four hours' stay in British ports, concedes belligerent rights to rebels yet, and ad-mits the Shenandoah to equal privileges with United States vessels. This is, doubtless, intended to allow the Sheuan-doah, the only rebel pirate now affoat, to get back to England from the East Indies, where she was at last advices.

Dangerous Fun.

Messrs. Editors: In passing down Gray. son street, on Tuesday night, at 9 o'clock, I was alarmed by the report of a pistol. I stopped and asked who was killed (supposing some negro soldier was practicing with his revolver), but the gentleman whom I asked stated that it was a neigh. bor on Green street, between Ninth and Tenth, who was only amusing himself by shooting cats of the male gender, that came visiting his shemale, and he being opposed to such business and not inclined to night prowling, was desirous of incul-cating moral and virtuous habits even in his cat. I think such sport dangerous to man and cat, and ought to cease, as the bullets are reported to fall in yards some distance off, and might hit a man or child. perhaps, in place of the cat. By inserting this you will confer a favor on a SUBSCRIBER.

Mad dogs are becoming numerous in the country. We notice a variety of curs on our streets running about loose. They should be muzzled or killed at once.

An Important and Remarkable Decision of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

In the spring of 1863, at the session of the Troy Conference at Fort Edward, New York, a clergyman was arrested on the charge of mal-administration, for refusing to receive a regularly authenticated certificate of church membership of the Metho-dist Episcopal Church. The case was tried, and the Conference and the Bishop sustained the rejection of said certificate. The party, supposing he had a right to attend the means of grace in the Methodist Epis-copal Church, being in good and regular standing, rented and paid for a seat in said church, and did so cocasionally attend at Fort Edward, where he resided. Strong objections were urged against such attendance, and forcible means used to prevent it, from which resulted three cases of assault and battery and one libel suit, all of which were settled last January, submitting the following questions to the Troy Annual Conference, which held its session at Plattsburg, New York, during the past

The following is the question and enswer of the presiding Bishop:
Question.—Has a member of the Methodiet Episcopal Church, in good and regular standing, a right to visit and attend the services of any other society than that of which he is a member, including the social prayer meetings, love feasts and class meetings of the church he may visit?

Answer.—A member of the Methodist are of superior work, and warranted to give satisfac-tion, for which we can furnish numerous references right to attend the regular meetings of the class of which he is a member, and to which he is responsible for his conduct, and generally christian courtesy would dictate that members in good standing in one society would be allowed to participate in such udgment of those who are responsible to the church for the proper management of these meetings, the attendance of a person of another society is an injury to the meeting, such person may be rightly prohibited from taking part in the services of such meeting, and not being responsi-ble to the society who meetings he pro-poses to attend, he has no ecclesiastcal right to participate in said services. GOOD NEWS FOR ALL. MADAM MAYNARD Portable Steam Engines, as arrived, and can be consulted on the past, pres ent and future. She will give entire satisfaction of all the concerns of life, such as law-suits, love affairs, marriages, journeys and all business transactions. All who have been unsuccessful and unfor tunate in this life should consult her. She will bring success to all who have been deceived by hose they love; she will bring back the absent oved ones; she will make up quarrels of every de cription, and place them in their former Eden; she will make you happy, when all others fail; and she will honestly and frankly tell you what is best for you to do. This will saye you time and money, and reep your mind content. In love affairs she never falls. She has the secret of winning the love and adoration of the opposite sex. She will guide the single to a happy marriage and make the married happy; she will tell of absent friends, whether they are living or dead, or if they are in the war or not, or on the sea, or on the land, or if they will ever come home, when and how; she will bring news from friends, no matter where they are, and make delinquents answer letters; she is a sure dependance; she is a perfect lady, and practices nothing that is not reconcilable to philosophers. A single visit is sufficient to convince the most fastidious. Come, then, all who are in trouble. She has a word of sympathy for you, and will pledge herself to do her very best for you. She will describe the character of your future or present husband or wife. If you have tried others, do not despair. There is luck and happiness yet for you. Come, and try the Madam, and send all your friends. In short, she can do all that others do, and much more.
